Imagination: Visions of What Might Be

CSOTTE supports educator preparation and development. The annual CSOTTE Conference includes two programs: a three-day program for Educator Preparation Program (EPP) professionals and a one-day Emerging Scholars program. Emerging Scholars are students in education programs at all levels (undergraduate and graduate) and first-year educators (having graduated in the last academic year).

The Emerging Scholars Program includes specific sessions for teacher candidates and novice teachers as well as the conference's general session. The Emerging Scholars poster session is a highlight of the conference. Scholars present their learning and scholarship to conference participants, providing opportunities for Scholars to learn from and with early career and experienced educators.

2024 CSOTTE Conference: Emerging Scholars Program

Monday, October 14th

Registration Fee: $60.00

Those wanting to attend conference offerings other than the Emerging Scholars Program must register for the Professional Program at the Professional conference rate.

Scholars are invited to present a poster sharing academic or scholarship projects completed while enrolled in their preparation program. These projects could include practitioner activities or research and be individual or collaborative (with peers or faculty) efforts. Your unique perspectives and experiences will enrich the conference and contribute to the collective learning of all participants.
