2023 Call for Manuscripts

TxEP is the journal of the Consortium of Texas Teacher Educators, a non-profit organization dedicated to the continual support and refinement of preparation and development programs for certified school personnel in Texas. The journal seeks to encourage, support, and report research and development of educator preparation. TxEP welcomes submissions of research, practitioner-based, or professional emphasis. Each manuscript is subject to a double-blind peer review and must be previously unpublished nor under consideration for publication elsewhere.

The theme for the summer 2023 volume is “#Heartwork: Uplifting and Supporting Teachers”. Teaching is an intentional profession that takes #heartwork and an essential profession for continuous learning, growing, and achieving. This is a time to uplift, support and commend our teachers at all levels and in all classrooms. TxEP invites manuscripts of research, practitioner, or professional scope for publication which celebrate the work of teaching.

Articles are welcomed for submission now through March 20, 2023. The 2023 volume of TxEP will be published in Summer 2023.

SUBMISSION GUIDELINES

STYLE: The full manuscript must adhere to the Publication Manual of the American Psychological Association (7th edition).

FORMAT: Abstract Length: 50-100 word count maximum
Manuscript Length: 3,500-10,000 word count (double-spaced, not including references)
Authors should prepare two Word documents, a cover page and the manuscript. The cover page must include author’s(s’) name(s), manuscript title, email addresses for each author, phone number for lead author, institutional affiliations, and date of submission. If the work was presented at the CSOTTE 2022 Fall Conference, also indicate the session number and session title. Additionally, the author(s) should identify if the work is research-based, practitioner-based, or a literature/historical review.

The manuscript should include an abstract which makes connection to the theme, 3-5 key words, and the body of work. The author(s) must remove any identifiable information from the manuscript to ensure a blind review. If the author’s/authors’ work is referenced, it should be cited as “author(s), (date)” in both the manuscript and in the reference listing.

TABLES & FIGURES: Format all tables and figures as per APA guidelines and embed within the manuscript; not as appendices or separate files.

PHOTOGRAPHS/ARTWORK: Authors are responsible for obtaining any needed releases or permissions for use of photographs or artwork. Documentation of such permissions should accompany the proposed manuscript.
